

Spain JS

A Summer JavaScript Conference in Madrid

4th - 6th of July, 2013

About the conference

SpainJS is the second edition Javascript conference to be held in Madrid.

We love Javascript, so we're really excited to be hosting amazing talks to learn from the experts and hear about their accomplishments from around the world. Attendees will have the chance to learn about some of the hottest javascript topics and be on hand for some other surprises.

SpainJS is a non-profit event. We want to meet with the massive amount of interest in Javascript in Spain, generating a lot of local groups and events. We are supporting this local community interest by organising SpainJS.

The event will turn around some JavaScript hottest topics. We know networking is very important so we will organize two night parties in order to encourage people networking.

The conference will be developed into three days:

- First Day (4th July): Workshop day
- Second and Third days (5th and 6th): Conference days which will be held around only one track.

Who are the organizers?

SpainJS is organized by the “Asociación para la Promoción del Desarrollo web” (APRODEWEB) a non-profit, volunteer-driven association to promote web development in Spain. Since 2006 the members of the association have organized the “Conferencia Rails”, a popular Ruby on Rails conference also held in Madrid, and support other groups such as Madrid.rb and Madrid.js.

Previous Edition Statistics

The SpainJS 2012 statistics were:

18 speakers (among which Jeremy Ashkenas and Alex MacCaw)

You can check the site out in <http://2012.spainjs.org/>

The venue

The conference will be held at Universidad Pontificia de Salamanca (UPSAM) located on the university campus of Madrid with Metro access and Bus service.

We hope to take full advantage of the location to attract visitors to the event from all over Spain and the world.

The city

Madrid is the capital of Spain, located in the heart of the peninsula and right in the center of the Castilian plain, 646 meters above sea level, with a population of over three million. A cosmopolitan city, a business center, headquarters for Public Administration, Government, Spanish Parliament and the home of the Spanish Royal Family. Madrid also plays a major role in both the banking and industrial sectors.

Most of its industry is located in the Southern fringe of the city, where important textile, food and metal-working factories are clustered. Madrid is characterized by intense cultural and artistic activity, and a very lively nightlife.

Attendees

Attendees are delegates from companies and startups, or freelancers wanting to keep up-to-date with the latest technologies and best development practices.

Their job titles and experience range from junior to expert. We hope to have an attendance of approximately 400 people.

Speakers

We have confirmed the following international speakers:

Douglas Crockford entrepreneur who is best known for his ongoing involvement in the development of the JavaScript language, for having popularized the data format JSON (JavaScript Object Notation), and for developing various JavaScript related tools such as JSLint and JSMin. He is currently a senior JavaScript architect at PayPal, and is also a writer and speaker on JavaScript, JSON, and related web technologies such as the Yahoo! User Interface Library (YUI). Additionally, Douglas is the author of the book: JavaScript, the Good Parts.

Axel Rauschmayer Consultant and trainer for JavaScript, web technologies and information management. He has been programming since 1985, developing web applications since 1995 and held his first talk on Ajax in 2006. In 1999, he was technical manager at an internet startup that later expanded internationally.
